-1997

Issue #16

Vol. 3.6 cm³

This is Bryan. Pat's gone, and it's the deadline, so I'll fill up this space this month. I'm going to write about my friend, "Jon". "Jon" left a tightly sealed bottle of apple cider in an unused locker to see what fermentation would do to it. One day it blew up in his face. Now, we can question the intelligence or common sense involved, but the fact remains that "Jon" was just unaware that fermenting could build up such pressure. The Administration decided to ~~cancel~~ oh screw it. Any way, he's not going to be joining us at school until the last grading period. But things could be worse. The way they are interpreting the event, they could have kicked him out. They thought he was conspiring with which to eliminate the human contributors to his discontent. Why must they be perpetually silly on such matters? C'est l'Administration. Come see American Bandana at the next contest because they are good.

MEMBER OF THE MONTH: BURKE PODANY

Available from
Pat Joe Bryan

BEAT
REAR!

Burke has the rare distinction of being a M.O.M. twice. (Only Justin Thomas has also done it.) Back in issue #3 Burke somehow managed to get nominated, and this time we have good reason for putting him here. He was the 1st and only person to receive our Official CRDHFC Haircut, performed by President Pat Hu. Now that's devotion. -D-

FAN CLUB NEWS

COMPILATION!: If we're not horribly bad, the compilation should be available as you read this. Don't miss the excitement!!! Only $2.00!

FAN CLUB NEWS!: In an unprecedented publicity move, the CRDHFC Fan Club News has moved to the right (of the front page, not politics). We recieved word from writer Joe the V.P., who said: "There comes a time when all good things, however trivial or great, must move on." PAT HU's haircare has undergone massive fluctuation recently, sources say. Switching from Brylcreem, he had a brief stint with Royal Crown and is now reportedly using Brylcreem PowerGel. The world awaits reaction of Mr. Strobl, a noted specialist.

!QUOTES!

"We're running low on quotes this month."
- Joe the V.P.

IT'S THE CRAIL CORNER!

OK. What do we know about Jon Crail?

- He's a ~~fast~~ Junior
- He's a swimmer.
- He was gonna be M.O.N. but we did this instead.
- He likes Swedish meatballs.
- His dad is the superintendent.
- His dad's name sounds like "Mark Trail".
- His favorite Enemy of the Month is the John Deere posse.
- He used to point at Pat and yell, "Hey, it's that guy!"
- He has a shirt that says, "I Survived Impact".
- He wears Cardroy a lot. and...
- He likes "Nudity" (the song, the song!)

I got my wisdom teeth pulled 4 days after Pat died! Sorry no picture

JOE THE V.P.'S WORD OF MONTH:

Sady (sā' dē) adj. 1 The White House 2 The Underground Asian Movement 3 The Holy Roman Empire 4 my mom's garden.

If ever there were, in all my life, a sight more sad than this, 'twas to see a man, in my flight, I stumbled through the mist, then to my horror there appeared a girl, a little girl, a girl with a face as lovely as a flower, and what it was, I said to him, I watched as his eyes shone, and from his mouth there ventured out a gruesome little groan. He turned about on his way, but now I gave him chase. "Now who are you, quo the I to him. "You incorporeal clown. And how do you now move about, sans legs, with only a rown? He spoke to me quite wearily. Believe me when I say, I shuddered then! You see my friends, those lips of his were still. Ye scores of words flew from that face and gave me quite a chill. I came from a world of yore, a long-forgotten race. We left when once we felt we were no longer needed here, for of what use is psychic talk when hand writing is near? But hand writing, I cried at this, with une xpected haste. "Oh yes," he said, "I said today that hand writing is king. The Club's the thing. The horror! The horror!"

Joe G.F., Bryan P., and Adam S. discuss the art behind the new C.R.D.H.F.C. Soundtrack.

JOE: So how should we start this thing?... Well, uh, Pat's parents have abducted him and taken him to Toronto. So we're stuck here trying to be amusing without him* as we discuss CRD's most recent H sample.

ADAM: O.K. We're talking about this? [Points to H.]

BRYAN: Did He put "I" after "VELOCIPED"?

J: Oh, yes. It's original work. Nice, no?

B: Classy.

A: So, what about the "5"?

J: Well, that's my doing. See, we didn't know about Yellow 5's song when He wrote this, so I got the "YELLOW" from His Velocipede sample (issues #3 & 15). The "5" comes from those TDK stickers.

B: I like particularly the indentation of "THE NEW INTERNATIONAL BALLOON SOCIETY."

A: I'd have to agree.

J: The Man's a genius. Expedience leads Him to wild solutions.

B: [Feigning eloquence] Expedience is His only influence.

J: So what're your favorite words in this sample?

A: I'll have to go with "HYDROCHLORIC." It's the... the essence of word.... And the "Y," it sort of draws everything down.

B: I'll go with "VACALOCA." The alternating vowels and consonants really do it for me.

J: Spanish is good for that.

B: Yeah, I've only really seen English words spring from His hand before.

A: You know it's a shame that "AGENT THURSDAYS" from the original didn't make it on the tape, due to the extravagance of the word "AGENT."

FROM ORIGINAL SAMPLE:

AGENT THURSDAY

PEDRO SAN VACALOCA

B: Yeah, you have the 2 towers of power right next to each other in "G" and "E."

J: But no longer the "E-like-G."

B: Sadly.

J: What do you think about his "C.R.D.H.F.C. SOUNDTRACK"?

I don't think that he's ever written the Club's

*It goes without saying that we failed miserably.

acronym like that before.

A: I like it. The curl on "C" and the flowing "R"...

B: And there's the cute little lowercase "u" peeking out from the tall forest of capitals.

J: [Flaunting his familiarity with British literature] That's capital.... We need to end this thing somehow.

B: On the whole, it's not his greatest work.

A: I think that the original is better than the copy used here.

J: Yes. It is a shame that not every man, woman, girl, and boy can view in person the Man's masterwork.

A: [Dreamily] Maybe someday...

Here's a nice story from a nice New Jersey member:

Oh, funny story about how the membership card came into use (CRDHFC). My friend and I biked
a nearby park and one time we decided to go back.
The sign said that you had to have a driver's license but we tried anyway. Zee-gaw They asked for identification and the only thing I had on me was that card. He accepted it!
You may think this is kind of dumb but I my friends and I decided that we were going to Send us mail!

We love it!
You'll be famous.

Now, in the spirit
of the season
recently past:

It was right before Christmas all over the state,
But there in the city, they just couldn't wait.
The sacks and the cartons were scattered around,
Awaiting the presents that soon would abound.
The mommies and daddies, the girls and the boys
Were gathered together and thinking of plays
To entice all the elves and the man with the sleigh
To slide down their chimneys before the next day.
But they had lots of reason for worry that night
For all of the reindeer had gone out on strike.
Santa called Avis and Hertz Rent-A-Car
But they said, "Closed for Christmas; you're not getting far!"
The derailleur was broken on his fourteen-speed bike,
And his bunions were hurting too much for a hike.
So he saddled a moose and he rode it to town
With his satchel of goodies and jacket of down.
Then from deep in the city there rose a great noise
As they hatched a great plan to deliver the toys.
They'd send letters to Santa and picket his place.
Show him posters and signs--and a pie in the face!
They would withhold their coffee and cookies and shots
Until he came through with the gifts for their tots.
Then they shouted in unison, never to fear,
And they struck in support of Herr Claus' reindeer.
Well, when Santa saw how they were closing the ranks,
He knew he could not get away with his pranks.
So he turned to old Dasher and Dancer, et al.
Saying, "Don't let my empire crumble and fall."
I will meet your demands. I will charter a plane.
And I'll make you all partners in my business game
If you'll help me deliver the presents tonight
To the folks of the city, so plastered and tight.
Then all the people applauded and clapped
For they knew that their presents could soon be unwrapped.
And they shouted and cheered and their smiles were all bright.
Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!
