MOVIE FACTS #13 of 22

Over a period of time STAR WARS™ production illustrator Ralph McQuarrie went from simple sketches and line drawings to a handsome series of production paintings which set a visual tone for the movie. "Sometimes I would sketch off the top of my head," McQuarrie commented, "or sometimes George Lucas would bring me something he had seen in the comics or in a book."

MOVIE FACTS #5 of 22

George Lucas on STAR WARS™ :
"GULLIVER ON MARS was the first story in the (science fantasy) genre that I have been able to trace. Jules Verne came pretty close, I suppose, but he never had a hero battling against space creatures or having adventures on another planet. A whole new genre developed from that idea."
